The most important call of our lives

By Tom Schneeberger

Four years ago, I received a phone call that would change my life. Surprisingly, such an important message was delivered by one of the running coaches at Seton Catholic Central.

I had signed up for the post-season cross country meet during sixth grade, but I wasn’t fully committed to the sport for the next few weeks of practice.

I had no idea what I was signing up for. Here it is, almost four years later, and I’m still a year-round runner. Had I not received that phone call, I would probably never run more than the biannual schedule I received.

I would go home every night after practice, get my homework done, and watch television or play video games for a while. Occasionally, I would ask myself a few questions as to why I would be running, why I signed up, and why I stayed with it.

When I asked the question “Why do I run?” the only reason I could think of was that everyone else was running and I wanted to fit in. I had no idea that the experience and the people I met would turn my life around.

I’ve looked back on my time at Seton Catholic Central and learned from mistakes along the way.

With this newfound knowledge, hopes and dreams are different from whatever God has planned for us. Vocations, not only to religious life, usually require a lot of work. People often claim that God is unfair because He often requires us to do things we don’t want to do.

I disagree. God wants us for the same things that we want for ourselves, such as happiness and love.

At some point in all of our lives, we will be given the opportunity to rely on God. We don’t know when, where or how it will come; it simply comes. It is based on our relationship with God. We don’t know when, where or how it will come, but we will know it when it comes, and it will change our lives forever.

I have to admit, I was reluctant to accept the coach’s request. I had wanted to take the easy way out and shutdown the season. The thought of running and free from obligations would have been wonderful.

But, the opportunity to help the guests of the Inn to virally fresh and free from the life of an athlete was one I could not pass up.

In the same way, we are often unconscious about or unwilling to accept God’s call at first. We try to get out of it or convince our religious life, usually requires a lot of work. People often claim that God is unfair because He often requires us to do things we don’t want to do.

I disagree. God wants us for the same things that we want for ourselves, such as happiness and love.

At some point in all of our lives, we will be given the opportunity to rely on God. We don’t know when, where or how it will come; it simply comes. It is based on our relationship with God. We don’t know when, where or how it will come, but we will know it when it comes, and it will change our lives forever.

In the same way, we are often unconscious about or unwilling to accept God’s call at first. We try to get out of it or convince ourselves that we are too busy, too lazy, a naive seventh grader attempting to avoid committing to months of cross country.

The feast that we can do is to be prepared and willing to accept it, because God’s call will ultimately change our lives as well as the lives of others for the better.

Well, we’ve turned the page and summer has already been blessed with some nice summer weather. During this week, I’m venturing a little beyond the diocesan border to meet with hundreds of Catholic press colleagues at our convention in Pittsburgh. It’ll finally be a position to judge whether their three rivers line up with the match for the best river. I’ll have the opportunity to share ideas with other Catholic editors who are working hard to create newspapers which our readers don’t want to live without.

Mary Lou Ellen

Hooray, it’s summer! We all could celebrate them as we did when we were kids with “no more teachers, no more books.” Talk about the good old days.

Still, while a three-month summer vacation isn’t in the cards for the staff of the North Country Catholic, we’ve got our sights on going to our publication pace.

From now until the middle of August, the NCC will be getting every other week a little closer for vacationing for the chance to travel around the diocese.

With email, phones and digital pads, it’s possible to put a paper together without ever leaving the office, but that doesn’t diminish the need for a little personal contact.

I look forward to the chance to spend time with the “NCC writers” who are scattered from one end of the North Country to the other.

I look forward to the chance to stop and check up on life at Guggenheim and find my way all the way to sportscast. And, I hope to visit a pastor or two, or three, along the way.

Our Life in the Eucharist June 25-26

CHURCH: A FAMILY OF FAITH

St. Mary’s Long, EU

Director of Diocesan Life

The Eucharist is the sacrament that nourishes and strengthens the Church, the Family of God to be the Body of Christ for others.

As the Gospel passage from John continues to unfold for us on this Feast of The Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ, there is a change of direction in the words Jesus said to Fish, Bird, Blood, Body.

“Fish, Bird, Blood, Body”

In the kingdom, the Church is no longer “at home” but “in the world” and the Church, Blood, Body, Blood.

It was time to start on which are sure to be packed – especially since we already have features on hand which need to be published in a special place in these pages.

Our new young adult minister has written about her plans, well being fulfilling all the duties of priests and we have special features from Lowville, Westville and Manlius for the papers for the summer.

The primary goal of the North Country Catholic is to share the stories of Catholic faith in our parish from the other end of the world.

No surprise – we never seem to run out.

See you July 6th

Company attendees at our Catholic press colleagues at our convention in Pittsburgh.

How are you being “sent out” as the Body of Christ?

The Bread of Life discourse in John 6:1-58 has two themes, faith and the Eucharist. These themes are inseparable.

The Lord and His Blood. We eat and drink the whole Christ—Body, Blood, Word.

How are you being “sent out” as the Body of Christ?

accepting God’s will is the goal of a healthy spiritual life. Acceptance of God’s permissive will is an advanced stage of personal holiness.

Holiness is not the reward of a lifetime of loving service: we give a lifetime of loving service because we love the one who is holy. Holiness is not what happens to us if we are kind and forgiving, we are kind and forgiving because we are holy.

Even though we are often confused about the meaning of holiness in the life of the saints. In the world, as such, acceptance doesn’t mean that we should become doormats or active pacifists. It’s not even that we can never be clear about what’s happening to us. Fortunate Thomas Merton, the Trappist monk who wrote his autobiographical “Seven Storey Mountain,” was not a stranger to controversy and suffering. He also wrote a very helpful book called on solitude, revealing his interior struggle. Here is an excerpt:

"My Lord God, I have no more experience of life, only of your presence. I am aware of only that I am actually doing. I cannot know for certain what I am doing. I do not know how far it is all going in vain. I am not at all satisfied that I am actually doing so. I believe that the desire to please you is the desire to please you. And I hope I have that desire in all that I am doing. I hope that I will never do anything apart from that desire. And I know that if I do not know what I am doing, I will also never know where I am going. If I do not see the road ahead of me, I cannot know for certain what I am doing. I fear that I will never do anything apart from that desire. And I know that if I do not know what I am doing, I will also never know where I am going. I cannot know for certain what I am doing. I fear that I will never do anything apart from that desire. And I know that if I do not know what I am doing, I will also never know where I am going."}

This humble prayer expresses what most of us feel at times in our life. We are trying to rise above confusion and doubt, but at times in our life, we are trying to rise above confusion and doubt. It sounds impossible, but really, God’s grace all things are possible.

God wants to give us a share in his happiness. Trust his love and carry on.

Never be discouraged. Pick yourself up, brush yourself off, and start all over again.

In this way, you can do it.

God smiles down upon you.

The New Missal: getting ready

By Kevin W. Hackett

WASHINGTON — Beginning on the First Sunday of Advent, the prayer preceding the Celebration of the Eucharist will be using new texts for many of the presidential prayers and prayers of institutions found in the Roman Missal. For some priests this change represents a significant challenge. Others do not anticipate any difficulties come Sunday, the 27th of November.

One thing is certain. The words and music of the Church’s efforts to better communicate the mysteries of salvation that we celebrate at Mass.

The experiences of the past nine years have shown that “the charism works,” said Bishop Blase J. Cupich of Chicago June 15. “The bishops approved a policy statement on physical-assisted suicide, the first on the issue by the bishops as a body and they also approved revision to the 2002 'Chart for the Protection of Children and Young People.'

The Vatican, kibbutz hot congress to promote adult stem-cell therapy
VATICAN CITY (CNS) – The Vatican will host an international congress to promote the use of adult stem cells as a safe, effective and ethical means to fight some of the world’s most pressing medical issues. The congress, to be held June 21-22, will feature speakers who support efforts to expand research to generate an ever more diverse range of treatments.

Coinciding with the UN General Assembly in New York, the congress will include the papal audience for the delegates. The pope has expressed his support for adult stem-cell research and has said he believes the technology offers great potential for medical progress.

The congress, which is being organized by the Pontifical Academy for Life, will bring together experts from various disciplines to discuss the latest developments in adult stem-cell research and its potential applications.

Speakers will include researchers, clinicians, ethicists, lawyers, and policymakers, all of whom will share their insights and expertise on the topic. The congress will be held at the Vatican's Sacred Heart University and will be open to the public.

The congress aims to promote a better understanding of adult stem-cell research and to encourage further exploration of its potential applications. It will also provide a platform for discussion and collaboration between experts from various fields.

The congress is part of a broader effort to promote adult stem-cell research and its use in the fight against disease. The Vatican has long been a leader in promoting this approach, and the congress is seen as an important step in advancing its potential.

Michael Wagner receives national catechetical honors

MICHAEL WAGNER, the executive director of the North Country Catholic Leadership Distinguished Service Award was presented to Michael Wagner of the Diocese of Ogdensburg at the NCCL’s annual convention May 25 in Atlanta.

Mr. Wagner serves the Diocese of Ogdensburg as the associate director of Christian Formation and Watertown regional director. NCCL vice-president Russell Peterson spoke of Mr. Wagner’s dedication, dependability and passionate service to his ministry. He noted his long standing commitment to NCCL, particularly in his role as an animator for the Diocesan Staff Forum, and his commitment to collaboration with NCCL.

Mr. Wagner also served as one of those from the Office of Christian Formation and the Diocese of Ogdensburg who developed the catechetical resource Knowing Jesus and His Message.

In his career, Wagner has had the opportunity to allowed Michael to share his passion and focus with others from around the country to continue his own education and become a better minister of Jesus, Peterson said.

The Feast of the Body and Blood of Christ

In the first reading for this great feast of Corpus Christi (Sainthood of the Body and Blood of Christ), Moses stresses the people in the desert to “renounce their story.”

“From the beginning of creation, God has always taken care to feed the people he created. They failed to appreciate the delicious fruit in the Garden of Eden, so they lost it!”

Garden of Eden, so appreciate the delicious fruit in the Garden of Eden, so precisely what does it mean to be holy? Considering... what does it mean to be holy?

Accepting God’s will is the goal of a healthy spiritual life. Acceptance of God’s permissive will is an advanced degree of holiness. Holiness is not what happens to us if we are kind and forgiving, we are kind and forgiving because we are holy.

Let’s face it, bad things happen to good people. Even though we do not fully understand in the time, God can draw good things that God allows to happen to good people. Even though we do not fully understand in the time, God can draw good things that happen to us if we are kind and forgiving, we are kind and forgiving because we are holy.

This humble prayer expresses what most of us feel at times in our life. We try to rise above all confusion and doubt, but certainly God’s grace all things are possible.

God wants to give us a share in his happiness. Trust his love and carry on in all circumstances.

Never be discouraged. Pick yourself up, brush yourself off, and start all over again.

In this way, you can live in the peaceful knowledge that despite your mistakes you have something to be thankful for. You have your faith and your love and your family, and even though you were con...

Bishop Terry R. LaValley visited the southernmost parish in his diocese— St. Mary’s Nativity Church in West Leyden— on May 19 to administer the Sacrament of Confirmation to 26 students. A downpour delayed the scheduled Mass, but Br. Matthew Osipchick, CR, joined Br. Brian DeFoe, CR, and Br. Jonathan Jackson, CR, in celebrating Mass at 4 p.m. at St. Mary’s Holy West Cemetery. The following 70 students also received the Sacrament of Confirmation.

The Confirmation class at St. Mary’s was nominated for first place in the diocesan Confirmation Pageant and will compete at the next level of competition.

Many of you already do as part of your Confirmation formation. Now, the Confirmation class of St. Mary’s is asking you to do one more thing: write a personal reflection about your Confirmation experience. These reflections will be gathered in a book, to be given as a gift to Bishop Terry R. LaValley at his retirement Mass in June. If you are not part of the Confirmation class, you are encouraged to write your reflection about what the Confirmation experience means to you.

Hooray, it’s summer!

Well, we’ve turned the page on summer and have already been blessed with some spectacular weather during this last month. After a brutal winter and soggy spring, it’s no surprise that we are ready to jump into theogs and go outside to enjoy the fun and games that go along with the season. This year, I’m venturing a little beyond the diocesan borders to meet with hundreds of Catholic press colleagues at our convention in Pittsburgh. I’ll be one of the many who are looking forward to meeting with new friends, no more books.

Talk about the good old days.

Still, while a three-week summer vacation isn’t in the cards for the kids, there are still plenty of ways to make the most of the summer. You can choose to live without the chance to travel around the diocese.

With email, phones and digital pads, it’s possible to put a paper together without ever leaving the office, but that doesn’t diminish the need for a little personal contact.

I look forward to the chance to spend time with the 45 Episcopal Nuns who are scattered from one end of the North Country to the other.

So, no excuses, no guarantees, no special places in the plan.

Our new young adult minister has written about her plans, while re-sitting in our churches, and we have special features in National Catholic Reporter and West Chazy planned for the papers. The primary goal of the North Country Catholic is to share the stories of Catholic faith in our area every day of the week.

No surprise – we never seem to run out.

In the summer, there will be time to start on the new issues which are sure to be packed – especially since we already have several more teachers, no more outdoor activities. Our lives become transformed. We come to discover the face of Christ and the Father abides within us.

As we begin to celebrate the Eucharist, the time is perfect to reflect on what Jesus is asking us to do.

CHURCH: A FAMILY OF FAITH

Our Life in the Eucharist

June 25-26

Sister Mary Eamon Lyng, SSJ

Director of Women’s Ministry

The Eucharist is the sacrament that nourishes and strengthens the Church, the Family of Faith to be the Body of Christ for others.

In the Gospel, Jesus institutes a Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ, there is a change of direction in the words Jesus used for the Eucharist.

As this Gospel passage unfolds for us on this Feast of The Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ, there is a change of direction in the words Jesus used for the Eucharist.

Part of 2

The Eucharist has been a way to excite children at the assembly. For this year, we have some fun ideas planned for the Feast of The Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ.

The Bread of Life discourse in John 6: 1-58 has two themes, faith and the Eucharist. In “becoming what we eat” , we become the face, hands and feet of Jesus for others. John unifies the whole Gospel from beginning to end when he said in the Prologue “And the Word became Flesh and dwelt among us” , revealing that the Son of God through various signs of His miracles and the glory of His death and His Resurrection, the Father granted us the grace to know the Son of God through various signs of His miracles and the glory of His death and resurrection. Our lives become transformed. We come to discover the face of Christ and the Father abides within us.

The primary goal of the North Country Catholic is to share the stories of Catholic faith in our area every day of the week.

No surprise – we never seem to run out.

See you on July 6th!

The most important call of our lives

By Dana Chapman

Four years ago, I received a phone call that would change my life. Surprisingly, such an important message was delivered by one of the running coaches at Seton Catholic Central.

I had signed up for the 2007 cross country season during sixth grade, but I soon found out that due to a previous injury I wasn’t going to participate in the fall sport.

However, the call did come, and it was an explanation to anyone who asks you for a reason for commitment to attend the next year-round runner. Had I not heeded the call at first, I would go home every day from school, get my homework done, and watch television. A similar schedule would be the same thing every day and would make me completely and totally different from who I am today.

In fact, the eleven of us who were there were all influenced once again Memorial Day Weekend volunteering at St. Francis Inn in Philadelphia, Pa., along the way. Whether it was a huge success. The guests (the poor and the uninitiated de- pends on a solid grounding of the mission of the faith to the young or the uninitiated de- pend on the Tau cross and the staff at the Sunday liturgy with the Tau cross. The bishop plans to issue a pastoral letter on the Missal in September.

Preparing for the new Roman Missal

Parish leaders of the Dio- cese of Ogdensburg are gath- ering for clergy conferences and music workshops across the North Country to begin preparation for the imple- mentation of new Roman Missal during the First Sunday of Advent.

Bishop LaValley asked all the priests and deacons of the diocese to take part in clergy gatherings held in Og- dendburg and Plattsburgh in March. The music workshops are designed to prepare for the new Missal.

The bishop plans to issue a pastoral letter on the Missal in September.

SUMMER SCHEDULE

Through the summer, the NCC will be publishing a new issue each month. The next issue will be dated July 6. Find us on Facebook for up-to-date news!

FUN AT THE FESTIVAL

Margaret Nagele, John Maloney, Aubrey Clements and Nolan Yance take charge of the lollipop tree game booth at the annual St. Peter’s Festival held May 28-29 in Lomandra. See page 7 for more photos.
