Pope: We can’t ignore the poor

VATICAN CITY (CNS) - How Christians treat the poor is the clearest demonstration of their relationship with God, Pope Francis insisted. “To ignore the poor is to despire God! And we must learn this well: To ignore the poor is to despire God!” the pope said May 18 during his weekly general audience.

The pope focused on the Gospel parable of the rich man and Lazarus and said the story is a reminder of the “harsh reproach” that will come at the final judgment for those who ignore the needs of the poor. Lazarus represents both “the silent cry of the poor of all time and the contradiction of a world in which vast wealth and resources are in the hands of a few,” the pope said.

By excluding Lazarus, the pope said, the rich man “made himself the center of everything, closed in his world of luxury and waste.”

In the parable, the rich man has no name, he noted, while Lazarus’ name - which means “God helps” - is mentioned five times.

MARY’S MONTH: Catholic school children take part in May Crownings, p. 13
Seventy years of sensational service

Back in 1946, Catholics of the Diocese of Ogdensburg, like all Americans, welcomed a return to normalcy after World War II came to an end.

Elections that year gave majorities to Republicans in the House and Senate as President Truman, a Democrat, sat in the Oval Office.

The first meeting of the United Nations took place in Long Island in October. It’s a Wonderful Life with Jimmy Stewart and Donna Reed was released in December and the first America saint — Mother Frances Cabrini — was canonized in July.

That year — 70 years ago — was of great significance in our part of the country as well. That was the year that saw the launching of the North Country Catholic and, sixth months later, the launching of the one and only Msgr. Robert McCarthy as a priest.

We can give great credit to Bishop Bryan J. McEntegart for having the vision to establish a diocesan newspaper and, more importantly, to ordain a young man who would touch thousands of people around the world with his faith.

Our fifth bishop didn’t know, of course, that Msgr. McCarthy would become internationally known as the Carny Priest but clippings that fatten the NCC’s “Father McCarthy” file tell the tale.

In a 1993 interview, as he retired, Msgr. McCarthy shared the story of the growth of his unique ministry.

Back in 1961, when he was pastor in Gouverneur, the young priest knew a lot of people who couldn’t afford to go to the county fair so he went looking for free tickets.

“Jim Quinn, a good man, gave me lots of tickets,” Msgr. McCarthy remembered. “The next year, Jim phoned the rectory and told me that the carnival workers had been hurt by people who called them thieves. Their children had been refused baptism. I offered to instruct and baptize the children.”

The carnival workers “have a grapevine of their own,” Msgr. McCarthy said. “I was asked to conduct a funeral service of a carnival worker in New York City. The word spread and I was invited to Tampa, Miami, Chicago. It really grew into something big.”

Big enough to be recognized by more than one pope.

In 1970, Pope Paul VI named Msgr. McCarthy to the Pontifical Commission for the Pastoral Care of Itinerant People.

In 1979, he was invited to a private audience with Pope John Paul II who knew of his work with the migrants.

Now that he’s approaching his 98th birthday, Msgr. McCarthy’s ministry to carnival workers comes in his prayer for them and for all of us.

To say that we are grateful for the 70 years of Msgr. McCarthy’s priesthood — as well as the decades of service of all of our jubilarians — is such a wondrous understatement.

Their biographies, featured throughout the pages of this week’s NCC, give only a glimpse of the service and pastoral devotion that these priests have given to the people of the North Country. Well done good and faithful servants. We look forward to having you in our midst for many years (and decades!) to come.

A special time to pray for our priests

I have had the honor of celebrating a few jubilee anniversaries in my time. Each year we priests celebrate our priesthood with the anniversary of our ordination; we also rededicate ourselves as priests at the Chrism Mass on Holy Thursday at the Cathedral with our bishop.

Certain years, like 70, 60, 50, 40 and 25 are, by tradition, jubilee years.

Each year at our spring Diocesan Priests’ Meeting, we hold a special Mass and banquet in honor of those who are celebrating their jubilees.

This year, although the Spring Priests’ Meeting was a retreat (led by Cardinal Timothy Dolan), we still had our jubilee celebration. This is a time to brag a bit and to recognize the many years that have been piled up. This year it was especially joyful to celebrate the 70th anniversary for one of our priests — Monsignor Robert McCarthy. Congratulations, Father Mac.

As I remember my jubilee years, I know that I celebrated with gratitude. My prayers were prayers of appreciation for all that God allowed me to accomplish during my years as a priest.

Today, I continue to be grateful to God for the guidance and help to live out my ministry as a priest. I am grateful for the challenges that the Holy Spirit has placed before me over the years. I am further grateful for the many wonderful, loving people who have supported and helped me and been part of my ministry.

During this year’s retreat, I prayed, in a special way, for all of my brother priests, in a special way, remembering and praying for those celebrating their jubilees.

May God continue to support us all and keep us healthy and dedicated to our priesthood.

May God continue to fill our diocese with the power and gifts of the Holy Spirit, filling all priests and the faithful with the love of our God.

The jubilee is not about years — how many we have put in. Actually, the celebration of the jubilee may be about just one day. I know that I remember with intense gratitude one of those perfect days, when God chose me to bring love and peace to someone, a moment when I truly helped change a life, a time of making someone a better person.

I was blessed by the Holy Spirit to be in the right place at the right time and helped to say the right thing. Of course, I hope there were many such days with many people helped.

Yet, that one day will still stay with me as outstanding and special.

It is such a great day when I can celebrate a priest friend’s jubilee. It is a meaningful opportunity for me. I find it such a special moment when I can demonstrate my gratitude for this priest’s ministry and offer my support and congratulations.

As I take this time to offer my thanks and congratulations to our priests here in the North Country, I remind myself to add my remembrance of the deceased priests of our diocese, especially those who have died recently.

One of the more impressive ceremonies of our Spring Meeting is an evening time of prayer to remember and pray for our deceased priests, especially those who have died during the past year. As his name is called out a candle is lit for each priest and deacon in remembrance. It is a special and important moment.

Let me take this opportunity to invite you to join us in your prayers for the priests of your diocese, remembering, in a special way those special priests who are celebrating their jubilees.

To our beloved Pastor Emeritus

Msgr. Robert J. McCarthy

Congratulations on celebrating 70 years in the priesthood!

The parishioners of Church of the Holy Family, Watertown
In the first Harry Potter book, The Philosopher's Stone, Harry finds himself at one point in a room with a mirror. When he looks into the mirror he sees not just himself but his parents standing behind him. They are smiling at him with great love in their eyes.

I’m so very proud and humbled to minister with you because the pastoral pastures, they are a changing, and you are determined to smell of your sheep however they come or go.

As you remember, Harry is an orphan whose both parents were killed by the evil wizard at the very beginning of the story, when Harry was only four. Harry is entranced with the mirror to be removed to ministry, particularly when our pastoral vision seems an impossible dream. Sometimes we feel like the lamb among wolves in a society that seems increasingly hostile to the Church and Christ’s teachings.

I’m so very proud and humbled to minister with you because the pastoral pastures, they are a changing, and you are determined to smell of your sheep however they come or go.

Despite our occasional fears to the contrary, we are not alone. We have the presence of God living in and through us. Even when we lose our way we are assured that God is there, turning everything to our good. It is as we grow in our awareness of this happening, we can enlighten the lives and ministries of our brother priests as well as the lives of all the folks with whom we live and minister.

Life is truly a journey to be lived, a gift to be unwrapped. Yes, the road is filled with many challenges, heartaches and joys. Through it all we, as individuals, grow to learn more and more about ourselves and our God. We thank God for the gift of one another. As companions on this journey called life, we thank God we have one another along the way. Tonight, we especially express gratitude to these Jubilarians whose lives of service and holiness cause us to rejoice and spur us on in our ministry to God’s holy people. And we thank God for holy men such as Cardinal Dolan whose inspiring leadership instills such hope, courage and joy within our priestly hearts. May God be praised... forever may God be praised!

Environmental Stewardship

How is the Trinity Related to Ecology?

Pope Francis tells us that “For Christians, believing in one God who is Trinitarian communion suggests that the Trinity has left its mark on all creation.” He quotes St. Bonaventure who teaches us that “each creature in itself a specifically Trinitarian structure, so real that it could be readily contemplated . . . .” “The Father is the ultimate source of everything, the loving and self-communicating foundation of all that exists. The Son, his reflection, through whom all things were created, united himself to this earth when he was formed in the womb of Mary. The Spirit, infinite bond of love, is intimately present at the very heart of the universe, inspiring and bringing new pathways.”

The world was created by the three Persons acting as a single divine principle. . . when we contemplate with wonder the universe in all its grandeur and beauty, we must praise the whole Trinity.”

Let us pray his prayer: . . . Triune Lord, wondrous community of infinite love.

Teach us to contemplate you in the beauty of the universe, for all things speak of you.

Awaken our praise and thankfulness for everything that you have made. God of love, show us our place in the world as channels of Your love for all the creatures of this earth, for not one of them is forgotten in Your sight.

Enlighten those who possess power and money that they may avoid the sin of indifference that they may love the common good and advance the weak and care for this world in which we live. The poor and the earth are crying out.

O Lord, seize us with Your power and light, help us to protect all life; to prepare for a better future for the coming of Your Kingdom of Justice, Peace, Love and Beauty! AMEN”

Fr. LaBaff: in the words of a parishioner

By David Morse
Contributing writer

On Saturday, May 28, 1966, Arthur J. LaBaff of Massena, was ordained into the priesthood at St. Mary’s Cathedral in Ogdensburg with four other men. Today, he is the last of these men still actively serving in the Diocese of Ogdensburg.

A graduate of Sacred Heart Grade School in Massena and a 1958 graduate of Massena High School, Father LaBaff entered the seminary at Wadhams Hall in Ogdensburg shortly after graduating high school. After two years at Wadhams Hall, he was assigned to Christ the King Seminary in St. Bonaventure University in Olean, NY, studying two years of philosophy and four years of theology.

At that time he was one of approximately 250 men studying to become priests. That number has dwindled over the years to well under 50 men.

Father LaBaff was ordained by Bishop Thomas Andrew Donnellan in a ceremony that featured some monumental changes to the Roman Catholic Church. The hymns were sung in English as were the Ordination Instructions from the Bishop, instead of in the usual Latin.

This Mass was also celebrated with the priests facing the congregation, both new to the Roman Catholic Church.

As the Catholic Church instituted these monumental changes, Father LaBaff embarked on an amazing 50-year journey of service and devotion.

Father LaBaff was first assigned as parochial vicar (assistant pastor) at Our Lady of Victory, Plattsburgh, where he served from 1966 to 1968. He then had assignments at Notre Dame in Malone and St. Mary’s Cathedral in Ogdensburg.

Father LaBaff then served as pastor at St. John the Evangelist in Morristown and Our Lady of Grace in Brier Hill, Saints Phillip and James in Lisbon, St. Patricks in Chateaugay and St. Jude’s in Brainardsville, Notre Dame in Malone, and St. Patrick’s in Watertown.

In 2009, he was transferred to St. Mary’s in Clayton and St. John the Evangelist in Lafargeville and serves both parishes to this day.

Father LaBaff has also served as diocesan youth director, founding the Gugenheim Summer Camp in 1972.

He has been director of the Bishop’s Fund, an assistant chancellor, a Dean in the Franklin and Jefferson County Deans, a Diocesan Consultant, member of the Council of Priests and of the Priests Personal Committee.

Throughout his life and career, Father LaBaff has shown a great devotion to his family, the church, the parishes he has served, and to all people. He has changed many lives, and continues to do so.

Parish celebrations

On Friday, May 27 at 5 p.m. at St. Mary’s Church in Clayton, the parishioners of St. Mary’s in Clayton and St. John the Evangelist in Lafargeville, invite all to participate in spirit of Christian Joy in a Liturgy of Thanksgiving on the 50th Anniversary of Ordination to the Holy Priesthood of their pastor.

On Sunday, May 29 at 9 a.m. at St. Mary’s Church in Clayton, the parishioners of St. Mary’s and St. John’s will also celebrate Father LaBaff’s 50th Anniversary of Ordination to the Priesthood with a Mass of Thanksgiving, with a reception immediately following the service. Everyone is welcome to these two celebratory Masses.

The priest served as an assistant pastor in Potsdam, Morrisonville and St. Alphonsus, Tupper Lake. He was name pastor in Redwood in 1973 and Watertown regional religious education director the following year. He also serves as pastor in Evans Mills and chaplain at Jefferson Community College.

Two priests of the diocese are celebrating 40th anniversaries of ordination this year – Father Garry B. Giroux and Father Peter G. Helfrich.

Father Giroux has served as pastor in Brasher Falls and St. Peter’s in North Lawrence since 2010.

A native of Massena, he was born April 14, 1935. He received a bachelor’s degree from Wadhams Hall Seminary-College and a master of divinity degree from Christ the King Seminary in East Aurora, N.Y.

He and his identical twin brother, Father Harry Giroux, were ordained priests on May 1, 1976 by Bishop Stanislaus J. Brzana. Father Harry died Feb. 3, 2012.

Father Giroux later earned a master’s degree in liturgical studies from the University of Notre Dame and a JCL degree in Canon Law from the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

In September, 2007, he completed the certificate program in Catholic Social Teaching at the Catholic University of America.

Father Giroux has served as assistant pastor at Notre Dame in Malone and St. Alphonsus in Tupper Lake. He was pastor in Louisville from 1985 until 1987 when he became Director of Diocesan Relations for The Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

Upon his return to the diocese in 1990, Father Giroux became pastor of the Catholic Community of Constable, Westville and Trout River.

He was named pastor in Potsdam in 2002, a position he held until his current assignment in Brasher Falls and North Lawrence.

Father Giroux has also served the diocese as secretary to the bishop and associate chancellor as well as executive secretary of the diocesan Department of Worship.

He was Diocesan Coordinator for the Year of Faith Initia­tives, a member of the Diocesan Envisioning Team and currently serves as the Diocesan Coordinator for the Vocations Summit.

Father Helfrich

Father Helfrich, also celebrating 40 years of priesthood, was born June 3, 1949, in Rochester.

He studied for the priesthood at St. Andrew’s High School Seminary, St. John Fisher College, St. Bernard’s Seminary all in Rochester and Christ the King Seminary in East Aurora, N.Y.

Father Helfrich was incar­di­nated into the Diocese of Ogdensburg at the time of his ordination as a transitional deacon Dec. 3, 1975.

He was ordained a priest May 1, 1976 at St. Mary’s Cathedral by Bishop Stanislaus J. Brzana.

Father Helfrich has served as parochial vicar at Sacred Heart, Massena; in Au Sable Forks, Keeseville, Brasher Falls; St. Joseph, Massena; Holy Family, Watertown; and Our Lady of Victory, Plattsburgh.

Archbishop offers prayers at memorial Mass for those in uniform
WASHINGTON (CNS) -- Archbishop Timothy M. Dolan of the U.S. Archdiocese for the Military Services prayed for those U.S. service men and women who have lost their lives in battle for the nation's veterans at a special noon memorial Mass May 15, Pentecost Sunday. About 2,500 Catholics gathered in the Great Upper Church of the Basilica of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington to pay tribute to men and women in the armed forces, and particularly to those who have "paid the ultimate price for American liberty."

We remember those who have died since our last archdiocesan celebration... Our prayer extends to all of those who have fallen in combat, as a result of illness or old age, as well as, an earnest uplifting to a loving Father of those who still bear the effects of war in their bodies or minds," the archbishop prayed. "This gesture of communion also includes an earnest petition for those who mourn the loss of loved ones young and old," he continued. "The divine love that inflames our hearts reaches out to those who experience the emptiness of those whose presence is no longer the same and to those who care for our dear veterans."

USCCB abuse audit warns of complacency
WASHINGTON (CNS) -- The annual report on the implementation of the U.S. bishops' "Charter for the Protection of Children and Young People" warns against complacency in dioceses, and the firm contracted to conduct audits of dioceses and parishes said there was "plenty of room for improvement" in implementing two of the charter's articles. In remarks prefacing the report, Francesco C. Cesareo, chairman of the National Review Board, the all-group that tracks for the bishops how dioceses address clergy sexual abuse, said this year's audit results "continue to demonstrate the progress that has been made in ensuring safe environments for children in the church. The bishops need to be acknowledged for keeping the protection of children and young people in the forefront of their leadership by continually enhancing their efforts to comply with the charter," Cesareo said. However, he also warned that the U.S. church's progress can "foster a false sense of security" that can "lead to complacency. Such complacency can lead to a minimalist approach to the charter, which can be seen simply as a series of requirements that need to be checked off, as opposed to an implementation that renders the charter fully operative," he said. One example Cesareo gave was that "while every diocese has a diocese review board; thereby complying with the charter's requirement, in some cases the diocesan review board rarely meets or had not met in several years."

Service, not power, is the true Christian path, pope says
VATICAN CITY (CNS) -- Those who seek only power and greatness, especially within the church, follow a different path than Jesus, who told his disciples to serve and not to be served, Pope Francis said in a morning homily. Preaching May 17 during Mass in his residence, the Domus Sanctae Marthae, the pope said Jesus speaks a language of humiliation, death and redemption, while others "speak the language of climbers" who only thinking of rising to the top of the heap. "The greatest is the one who serves the most, the one who is always at the service of others, not the ones who boast, who seek power, money, vanity and pride," he said, according to Vatican Radio. The pope focused his homily on the day's Gospel reading (Mk. 9:30-37), in which the disciples argued about who was the greatest among them. "If anyone wishes to be first, he shall be the last of all and the servant of all," Jesus tells them.

ALBANY, N.Y. (CNS) -- Bishop Edward B. Scharfenberger of Albany likes to term the future of the Shrine of Our Lady of Martyrs in Aurora, a "concelebration."

As when priests celebrate a Mass together and each recites one portion of the prayers, he explained, various entities will be collaborating to ensure the shrine's future.

However, the bishop cautioned that some of the information circulating in the secular media about plans for the shrine is premature. The planning process is still underway and is likely to continue for some time.

"The process could take the entire summer," confirmed Carmine Musumeci, former New York state deputy of the Knights of Columbus and a leading member of the Friends of Our Lady of Martyrs Shrine, Inc., a foundation of concerned Catholics formed by the Albany bishop.

The new not-for-profit organization currently has seven board members and several other interested parties participating in conference calls and other communications to discuss the shrine's future, Musumeci told The Evangelist, Albany's diocesan newspaper.

Not all of the participants are local; board members include Father Terry Brennan, a priest who ministers to Native American communities in New Mexico with a devotion to St. Kateri Tekakwitha; and John Dejak, co-editor of a forthcoming book, "With God In America," featuring the writings of Jesuit Father Walter Ciszek. The priest wrote extensively while he was on retreat at the Aurora shrine; his cause for sainthood is being considered.

Bishop Scharfenberger said he'd like to see the organization attain 501(c)(3) non-profit status. If the planning process for the shrine continues, its ownership could eventually be transferred to the Friends of Our Lady of Martyrs Shrine.

However, the Jesuit order would retain its cemetery for priests and brothers on the shrine grounds, the cemetery's related buildings and the portion of the property known as the Martys Ravine, where St. Isaac Jogues buried the remains of his fellow missionary, St. Rene Goupil, after he was martyred in the 17th century.

The shrine, where pilgrims to the shrine often pray, "is a sacred space important to the Jesuit community," noted Bishop Scharfenberger.

The Shrine of Our Lady of Martyrs covers 400 acres in Aurora on the site of the 17th-century Mohawk village of Ossernenon, where the "Lily of the Mohawks," St. Kateri Tekakwitha, was born. Also called the Shrine of the North American Martyrs, the site includes a massive columbarium used for outdoor liturgies, several chapels, Stations of the Cross, a visitors' center, picnic areas and the Jesuit cemetery.

The Jesuit order, facing a decreasing number of priests and the significant cost of the shrine's upkeep, decided last year to discontinue staffing the site. The Jesuits have continued to provide for maintenance of the grounds through a company called Parish Property Management Inc.

Musumeci said the current annual operating budget for the shrine is about $400,000 to $450,000, and that the shrine is "self-sufficient," with cash flow and donations covering expenses.

A fundraising campaign and radio-a-thon last year raised more than $2 million for necessary repairs and renovations to several of the shrine's buildings.

After Bishop Scharfenberger expressed interest last year in keeping sacramental ministry alive at the shrine, the Jesuit order offered to transfer ownership to the Albany Diocese. But in early May, the bishop reiterated, as he has stated previously, that "I don't think the shrine can just be managed by one ecclesiastical entity."

Keeping the shrine open, he said, is not a matter of "just transferring it" to another owner. In fact, Musumeci said he would like to see all eight Catholic dioceses in New York state involved in the shrine; to that, the bishop added religious orders and others nationwide.

A statement in an area newspaper that the Albany Diocese would be sending priests to celebrate Masses at the shrine every day is not "premature," Bishop Scharfenberger said, but does not account for the priests from outside the diocese who have expressed an interest in participating.

"I'm hopeful that will happen," he added.

The bishop envisions the shrine's future as focused on four things: evangelization; remembering the saints martyred there; honoring St. Kateri Tekakwitha and her connection with the Native American community; and continuing the tutelage and support of the Jesuit community in relation to the site.

Celebrating a central mystery of our faith

Today, the Feast of the Body and Blood of Christ, celebrates a central mystery of our faith, Christ, Son of God, as sacrificial food for the world.

All three readings speak about some important events in the Bible that led up to the greatest gift Christ left us, the sacrifice of the Mass.

The first reading tells us about a very successful rescue mission. Abraham, who is not really a military man nor a king, with only a couple of hundred men, bravely rescues his nephew, Lot, who has been taken prisoner by a conspiracy of foreign kings.

Another king, Melchizedek of Salem, is so grateful for this action that he invites Abraham to a royal banquet, offering him bread and wine, and a special blessing. Abraham, in turn, shows his gratitude by making a covenant with this pagan priest, offering him a tenth (a tithe) of all his property.

Through the centuries, this meal was never forgotten.

The second reading is also an important one, for it’s the first sacred writing to speak of what Jesus did at the Last Supper, and to tell us of the very words Jesus spoke in instituting the Holy Eucharist.

Of course, later, the Gospels would tell us the full story of that sacred night. Jesus tells us that He Himself will be the very food of sacrifice for the salvation of the world, and commands the apostles to do this over and over until the end of time.

All four Gospels contain the great story of the multiplication of the loaves of bread and a couple of fish that fed over five thousand. Jesus “took, blessed, broke, and gave” the food on that hillside, just as He would later do in the Upper Room — but with an important difference.

By his action this time, He changes the food into His own Body and Blood. And that four-fold action of Jesus is just what the priest does at every Mass.

Our Holy Father, Pope Francis, teaches us that eating of the food of Eucharist keeps us from being torn from Him in despair as “cowards - of our sinfulness”.

He tells us that we are cowards of our own sinfulness “when we are not obedient to the Word of the Lord, when we do not live brotherhood between us, when we race to occupy the first places, when we do not find the courage to witness to charity, when we are unable to offer hope.”

Feeding on the Eucharist, we are “inserted into a way that does not admit division.” “The Christ, present in our midst, in the signs of bread and wine, requires that the power of love exceed every laceration, and at the same time it becomes communion with the poor, support for the weak, and fraternal attention to those who are struggling to carry the weight of everyday life.”

When we are in despair of our sinfulness, we “let our Christian dignity be watered down”. We become affected by the “idolatries of our time” We become mediocre Christians.

Feeding on Eucharist will “deliver us from our sins and give us back our dignity.”

The Angry Birds Movie

By Kurt Jensen
Catholic News Service

Take an addictive phone app, contrive a plot to “explain” motivations, chuck in puns, brief potty humor and lengthy slapstick sequences, and you have the inane 3-D animated adaptation “The Angry Birds Movie” (Columbia).

That may sound like a harsh assessment of cheerful, largely inoffensive kid-die fare. So let’s put it this way: Which would you rather do, play “Angry Birds” and hurl tiny flightless fowls at evil green pigs - which will at least focus your mind, however fleetingly - or watch a screenful of birds discuss their feelings for 97 minutes?

Among those emotions, in keeping with Hollywood’s endless emphasis on individuality, is a central character’s determination to dissent from the preternatural cheerfulness he finds all around him.

“Why do we have to agree?” Red (voice of Jason Sudeikis) asks the other inhabitants of Bird Island. “Why does it matter that we’re not the same?”

Sometimes, the film concludes, it’s important to have a warrior mindset. Especially so when the island’s eggs are at risk from invading pigs who want to enhance their diet with yolky goodness.

That certainly squares with just war theory, and viewers of faith willing to squint sufficiently can even read a pro-life message into the movie’s premise.

From there, things progress along lines that the more than three billion people worldwide who’ve downloaded the app will find familiar. Co-directors Clay Kaytis and Fergal Reilly, working from a script by Jon Vitti, stage rescue sequences involving a giant slingshot that enables the birds to “fly” and hyperkinetic stunts once they land in the pigs’ complex lair.

The straightforward plot is unlikely to confuse - and the scenes of combat unlikely to frighten - any but the very youngest children. Accompanying adults, on the other hand, may well find themselves anxious for a speedy conclusion.

The film contains mildly scary action sequences and fleeting scatological humor. The Catholic News Service classification is A-II - adults and adolescents. The Motion Picture Association of America rating is PG - parental guidance suggested.
